5. Publication Update

Description: Email from Jane - Sent Jan 11

1. We'd love to get an update from as many Division Directors/Special Interest Reps as we can for this February issue. I've been lax about bugging people since everyone's schedules are so strained these days. It does not have to be 500 words if that helps, but any communication you want to get out into the field about your division or an update as to what discussions or events have been going on would be fabulous. Even a screenshot of a Zoom meeting with a paragraph about a topic is great!

2. This issue usually covers the conference, so I'd love to get a reflection from the conference folk about this 2020 shift and how it's going, etc. and a look forward as to what members might expect in 2021.

3. As always, writing about your personal experience is most welcome! I believe we have some freshly minted retirees (graduates?) from the field...what is it like to retire during a pandemic? With teachers in the trenches, have there been any silver linings about your teaching this fall/winter that you'd like to share? Any prompts that helped students feel connected?

4. Lastly, if you have made any pandemic/protest/self-care/care of others/community art yourself, or you're feeling great (or may be not great?) about something you have done with students this fall/winter, we want to see it/read about it in the News! Images really help.
